Thesis Title	The Arabic vocabulary in nama and hinda language's
Year	2008
Abstract	Learning languages is an important literary and scientific art which can not be mastered ,except by those who have a strong desire and will to be that. Translation is an essential part of this language learning at it helps know the similarities and differences of the language under study. Translation, especially from Arabic into Persian and vice versa, is a very significant issue nowadays as a result of the development of the relationships between Iran and Iraq, particularly after the frequent visits made by the high official of the two countries that enhanced relations in all fields. Therefore the people in Iraq are in need to learn the language and vocabulary of the pother side. After a long time of research and studying the various sources, the dictionaries in particular, it has become that most of the Persian vocabularies have an Arabic origin, therefore the Iraq visitor of Iran can use them easily and he will be understood well by the Iranians. It is commonly known that 60% of the Persian language is Arabic, but the research shows that 75% of the Persian Vocabulary is of Arabic origin , because the Iranians have depended on the Holy Koran and used its terms and diction in their administrative and social discourses . the research has found that the Iranian encyclopaedia contains many mistakes in the sequence of the Korans verses and in the text of some other verses.
